

AMERICANS FOR BEN-GURION UNIVERSITY

Partners in the Remarkable

An olive tree has been planted in the Negev Desert to benefit desert agriculture research in memory of

David Ben-Gurion

Planted with love by The Gruen Family

Americans for Ben-Gurion University supports agricultural research at Wadi Mashash, an experimental farm in Israel's Negev Desert run by The Jacob Blaustein Institutes for Desert Research at Ben-Gurion University of the Negev. At Wadi Mashash, agriculture is based entirely on the collection and use of the desert's rare flood waters. Techniques developed there are used to combat desertification in Israel and worldwide, offering hope to billions of people who live in drylands.

www.americansforbgu.org/plant-olive-trees